

EMBER is a security-first consulting, managed services, and outsourcing firm. We have expertise in cybersecurity, full-lifecycle IT management, engineering, analytics, and resilience. We help organizations with complex requirements transform, thrive, and survive at digital scale.

Security is at the core of everything we touch, implement, and manage.

Our ability to detect and identify REAL threats allows us to swiftly neutralize them and implement measures to keep our clients out in front of future threats. Our seasoned team brings deep expertise in a vast range of subject matter areas and skillsets across our security, consulting, and managed IT services teams, providing the flexibility to deploy a custom corps of EMBER experts to meet every client’s specific needs.

The brutal reality is that it’s not a matter of “if” but “when” a security event will occur.

Our team implements and manages the technology solutions that help organizations transform their day-to-day business operations, thrive in competitive environments, and survive the ever-evolving threat landscape.
